Suggestions for Your Pack Trip

WHAT YOU SHOULD BRING ALONG

In the High Sierra Wilderness Area you will be camping in high altitude. While the days are usually pleasantly warm, the nights are rather cool. You should be well supplied with warm clothes for your evenings around the camp fire, and with warm sleeping bags or bed rolls for comfortable sleeping. Rain coats or slickers often come in handy, too, as we do have some heavy summer rains.

In the bracing mountain air of the High Sierra, there is one thing you won't forget to bring—that's your appetite, which will thrive in the invigorating back country. Here's a suggested food supply list for a party of four for 10 days:

10 cans fruit juice
6 No. 2½ cans fruit
4 No. 2½ cans fruit cocktail
3 cans corn
3 cans peas
4 cans pork & beans
5 cans spam
5 cans corned beef
5 cans soup
1 can pepper
3 jars jam
1 jar pickels
1 jar peanut butter
12 small cans milk
2 large cans milk
1 lb. salt
5 lbs. Crisco
2 lbs. corn meal
5 lbs. crackers
3 lbs. sugar
½ lb. tea
5 lbs. coffee
½ gal. syrup
5 lbs. pancake flour
2 boxes Hershey bars
2 rolls wax paper
3 lbs. cheese
3 lbs. butter
1 roll toilet tissue
2 boxes matches
6 candles
2 bars toilet soap
1 pkg. laundry soap
4 lbs. raisins
2 doz. oranges
½ doz. lemons
3 doz. eggs
6 lbs. sliced bacon
12 loaves bread
6 lbs. sliced ham
20 lbs. potatoes or equal amount in cans
5 lbs. onions
5 lbs. cookies
1 lb. rice

(Bring Fresh Vegetables and Meat as Desired)

To Help You and The Packer

In order to save time and unnecessary correspondence please give the following information in your first letter to the packer:

1. How many persons will there be in your party?
2. Approximately what dates will you want to pack in and pack out?
3. To what lakes or to what area do you wish to pack?
4. Can you estimate how large your pack load will be—how many pounds?
5. Will you want continuous hire of the packer and animals, or will you want a spot pack trip?

A SPOT PACK TRIP is one in which you are packed to and left at a desirable camp site on a lake or stream, the stock and packer returning for you at a specified time. Arrangements can be made for stock to remain with the party, if desired. EXTENDED PACK TRIPS can be made in which the stock and packer remain with the party all of the time, so that you may move from one camp to another as you wish.
